THE EXTRAS MOST GUIDES SKIP

Buggy hire. Around €30 to €50 per round and not always included. Alcanada is €48, Son Gual €45, and Son Muntaner builds it into the green fee. An electric trolley is the cheaper middle ground at €15 to €20, and walking is free at most courses.

Club hire. Roughly €25 to €45 per round depending on the brand: Callaway and Titleist at Son Gual, TaylorMade around €38 at Alcanada. For three or more rounds, bringing your own usually wins once you add the airline bag fee.

Handicap and licence. Son Gual and Golf de Andratx ask for a handicap certificate (Andratx to a maximum of 28). Several clubs, including Alcanada and Son Muntaner, add a small daily golf licence of around €3 for players who are not federation members.

Practice facilities. Pula has a Trackman range and Alcanada a Toptracer range, both excellent for a proper warm-up. Maioris has one of the island's few public grass ranges. A bucket of balls is only a few euros and worth it before a championship round.

Private transport. A driver for the day runs roughly €80 to €140, easily worth it for a group splitting the cost or for the premium days when you would rather not drive.

Season is the real lever. Low season fees fall 40 to 50 percent on the same courses in the same condition, with far fewer golfers. Early-morning and twilight tee times carry lower rates too, so ask for them when you book.

ANDY'S VALUE VERDICT

Worth the splurge. Son Gual at €165 is the best premium round on the island and cheaper than Alcanada or Son Muntaner. If you only pay top money once, pay it here.

Best mid-price. Capdepera, Pula and Son Antem West sit around €135 to €145 and give you a genuine championship-standard day for well under the marquee prices.

Best on a budget. Maioris at €110 is the most underrated 18 on the island, and Canyamel drops to €65 in low season. For nine holes, Pollenca (€65) and Palma Pitch & Putt (€22) are unbeatable.

PLANNING A FULL TRIP?

Fees move constantly and the best value rarely sits on a price list. For groups or a multi-day itinerary I can source deals and build the week around your budget. Email andy@mrmallorcagolf.com with your dates.
