Difficulty is my own assessment from playing and teaching these courses, not a slope rating: five stars is a genuine championship test, one star a gentle introduction. Santa Ponsa 2 and 3 are members and guests only; Reserva Rotana is for hotel guests. Fees are guideline 2026 peak rates.

HOW TO CHOOSE

For a championship test. Son Gual and Golf de Andratx are the toughest, Alcanada the most demanding greens, and T Golf Calvia delivers a championship layout in faultless condition after its €10 million rebuild. Best for low handicaps or anyone who wants the island's biggest days.

For scenery and the story. Alcanada for the lighthouse, Golf de Andratx for the mountains, Canyamel for views to Menorca, Vall d'Or for the cliffside finish, and Pollenca or Son Termes for the Tramuntana. The setting matters as much as the score.

For value. Maioris, Golf Pollenca and Palma Pitch & Putt give you a proper Mallorca round without the premium price. Canyamel drops to €65 in low season, and Santa Ponsa 2 is excellent value if you can arrange guest access.

For learning. Palma Pitch & Putt, Golf Pollenca, Son Quint and Son Antem East are forgiving, welcoming and confidence-building, with no handicap pressure and room to enjoy the game.

For tour pedigree and famous names. Pula has hosted eight European Tour events, Santa Ponsa 1 a European Tour Open, T Golf Calvia the Mallorca Open, and Son Vida is where Seve won in 1990. Son Gual is Rafa Nadal's favourite.

For the smart saver. Book early-morning or twilight tee times. Fees drop, the course is quieter and the temperature is kinder from April to October. Ask for these rates when you call.

INSIDER NOTES · HOLES AND MOMENTS WORTH KNOWING

Son Gual. Thomas Himmel's 2007 design sits in its own wind ecosystem, so the breeze behaves differently on every hole. The closing run from 15 to 18 is among the finest four holes in European golf, and it is Rafa Nadal's favourite on the island.

Alcanada. A Robert Trent Jones Jr. layout with the lighthouse in view from 16 of the 18 holes, one of Europe's most photographed golf scenes. Fifty-eight bunkers, severe fast greens, and host of the Rolex Challenge Tour Grand Final, back for its sixth edition in October 2026.

Santa Ponsa 2. The 18th green is shaped like the island of Mallorca itself, a detail worth knowing before you get there. Heavily tree-lined, so a hybrid for position often beats the driver.

Son Quint. From the 8th, the highest point on the course, you tee off facing directly toward Palma Cathedral. Tiger Woods played here with his son Charlie in July 2022.

Son Vida. The oldest course on the island, opened in 1964, where Seve Ballesteros won a European Tour playoff in 1990. The 18th tempts a water carry on the second shot that many later regret.

Son Muntaner. Named Best Golf Course in Spain at the 2025 World Golf Awards, with a thousand-year-old olive tree standing beside the 15th. The buggy is included, which the climbs justify.

Golf de Andratx. The 6th is the longest par 5 in Spain at 609 metres. Built into the hills above Camp de Mar with genuine rough and narrow fairways, and a handicap certificate (max 28) is required.

Pula. Redesigned by Jose Maria Olazabal and host to eight European Tour events, with a Trackman range. Federer and Nadal played a round here in July 2025, and Pep Guardiola is a regular.

Canyamel. The 9th has a traditional stone hut sitting in the middle of the fairway, a hazard unique to Mallorca, and the 4th looks across to Menorca on a clear day.

Capdepera. Dan Maples followed the existing land: a gentle valley front nine, then a technical climb into the Llevant hills. The 15th was voted the best hole on the island by Mallorca Magazin.
